Mapping the Future of the Humanities and Social Sciences

Student Project Showcase & Reception

Monday April 21, 2014
5:45-6:45 p.m.
McKenna Peter Wright Rooms,
Cohon University Center

A Corrective Meta Analysis of Personalized Normative Feedback
David Zimmerman
Senior, Decision Science and Statistics

A Method for Distinguishing Between Homophily and Contagion in Social Networks
Hannah Worrall
Senior, Economics and Statistics

Breaking the Norm: Negotiating Individual vs. Group Identity in Food Culture in France and Spain
Catharine Youngs
Senior, French and Francophone Studies and Linguistics

Brief Mindfulness Meditation Training and Stress Reactivity: Mechanisms and Outcomes
Hayley Rahl
Senior, Psychology

Consumer Behavior in Upgrading Technological Goods
Akwasi Brefo (Senior, Economics), Maya Geleroff (Senior, Economics), Zaneta C. Grant (Senior, Economics and Professional Writing) and Michelle Lin (Senior, Decision Science and Economics)

Course Recommender
Nicholas Ettlinger
Junior, Statistics

continued
Student Projects continued

GreenLight Project
Michael Ferraco, Nathan Hahn, Dillon Grove and Jonathan Miller
Seniors, Information Systems

Heart of Caution: An Analysis of Post-Conflict State Building in Rwanda
Sara Faradji
Alumna, May 2013, Global Studies

Institutional Paradigms of Early Centralized Monarchy in Renaissance France
Christophe Combemale
Junior, Ethics, History & Public Policy

L1 Effects of Articulation of Samaritan Hebrew
Daniel Davis
Senior, Chemistry and Linguistics

Lighting Up the New Silk Road: How the CASA-1000 Pipeline Will Further U.S. Policy Interests in Central Asia
Lindsay Elliott-Foose
Senior, Decision Science and Global Studies

On the Cover of Rolling Stone: Photographs, Politics, and the Public
Marcy Held
Alumna, December 2013, Global Studies

Prohibition and Violence, a Case Study: Smethport, Pennsylvania
Felicia Alfieri
Junior, Business Administration (Tepper School of Business)

The Role of Power in Conflict Resolution in Romantic Relationships
Jaclyn Ross
Junior, Psychology

Three Healthy Cows - Evaluating Development Programs Through a Participatory Framework: Biogas Technology and the Kamalnayan Jamnalal Bajaj Foundation
Richard Stuver
Junior, Global Studies and Decision Science

Tone or Noise: How Previous Linguistic Experience Influences Lexical Processing
Amritha Mallikarjun
Senior, Cognitive Science and Human-Computer Interaction